The Center for Research on Race and Ethnicity in Society presents a CRRES Speaker Series Lecture and Keynote Address for the 2018 Graduate Student Research Symposium.

Dr. Marcia Chatelain

Associate Professor of History and African American Studies, Georgetown University

“Better Living Through the Humanities: Engaged Research, Public Scholarship, and Social Action Today”

Dr. Chatelain will discuss the intersection between her academic research in African American life and history and her public scholarship. In this talk, Chatelain reflects on transforming her dissertation into the book South Side Girls: Growing up in the Great Migration, her appearance on the podcast, “Undisclosed: The Killing of Freddie Gray,” her creation of the digital humanities project #FergusonSyllabus, and her work on Georgetown University’s Working Group on Slavery, Memory and Reconciliation. In sharing her experiences on these projects, she reveals how her graduate training prepared her to make a difference inside and outside of academia.

Thursday, April 19 at 4:00PM, in the State Room East of the IMU

Dr. Chatelain teaches about women’s and girls’ history, as well as the history of black capitalism. Dr. Chatelain is widely known as an educator, public speaker, and activist scholar. She is a Harry S. Truman scholar, Ford Foundation Diversity Fellow, German Marshall Fund of the U.S. American Fellow, Sue Shear Institute for Women in Public Life Amethyst Award recipient, and French American Foundation Young. This lecture is the keynote address to the CRRES Graduate Student Symposium “Contested Spaces, Contested Identities: Race and Ethnicity Across the Disciplines.” Join us on Friday, April 20, to hear graduate students from across campus present their research on the ways in which race and ethnicity affect identity formation and impact the negotiation of physical, political, aesthetic, and (trans)national space.

For more details: http://crres.indiana.edu/events/symposium.shtml

Co-sponsored by the Departments of History, Sociology, Political Science, African American and African Diaspora Studies, American Studies, Anthropology, Asian American Studies, Gender Studies, First Nations Educational and Culture Center, Latino Studies, School of Public Health.