

Symposium

Jews, Race, America

October 6-7, 2013

Hoosier Room,
Indiana Memorial Union
IU Bloomington

How is race used—both implicitly and explicitly—to construct who is Jewish?

How do narratives of race, which draw on different historical contexts, continue to influence how we think about Jewish identity?

How and where does the idea of race create an obstacle to critical thinking about Jewish identity?

The Jews, Race, America symposium connects scholars who are asking questions about Jews and race in innovative ways. The conversation seeks to transform the way scholars conceive of Jewish identity and shape the future of Jewish Studies.

SCHEDULE

Sunday, October 6

- 9 am JEWISH BORDERS: IDENTITY, SPACE, AND AUTHENTICITY
- Elliot RATZMAN, Swarthmore College
 - Dean FRANCO, Wake Forest University
 - Jennifer SARTORI, Northeastern University
- 1:45 pm HISTORY'S LONG SHADOW: THE LEGACY OF RACE AND RACIALISM
- Annalise GLAUZ-TODRANK, Wake Forest University
 - Judith NEULANDER, Case Western Reserve University
 - Jacob DORMAN, University of Kansas
- 4 pm READING RACE IN JEWISH LITERATURE
- Jennifer GLASER, University of Cincinnati
 - Benjamin SCHREIER, Penn State University

Monday, October 7

- 9 am BREAKFAST HOSTED BY CENTER FOR RESEARCH ON RACE & ETHNICITY IN SOCIETY
(Schuessler Institute for Social Research, 1022 E. Third Street)
- 10:30 am Roundtable
WHERE DO WE GO FROM HERE? RACE AND THE FUTURE OF JEWISH STUDIES
- Annalise GLAUZ-TODRANK
 - Sarah IMHOFF, Indiana University
 - Elliot RATZMAN

ROBERT A. AND SANDRA S. BORNS JEWISH STUDIES PROGRAM

1011 East Third Street, Goodbody Hall 326, Bloomington, Indiana 47405

812.855.0453 www.indiana.edu/~jisp iujsp@indiana.edu