

Center for Research on Race and Ethnicity in Society (CRRES) Graduate Student Travel Grant (GSTG)

The Center for Research on Race and Ethnicity in Society (CRRES) Graduate Student Travel Grant is open to advanced graduate students at Indiana University-Bloomington who are in good standing with their departments. Graduate students can receive $500 for travel to national or regional meetings where they are scheduled to present a paper based on original social scientific or humanities research that engages the topic of race and ethnicity. Advanced students are those who have passed their Master's requirements. Active CRRES graduate student affiliates will be given priority.

Grant recipients will be asked to write up a report about their research for the CRRES website or newsletter, and are expected to attend at least four CRRES events over the course of an academic year. Award recipients may also be asked to attend and present their research at a CRRES colloquium, and write up content for the CRRES website.

Required application materials for the travel grant include: (1) cover sheet (see CRRES website for cover sheet); (2) curriculum vitae; (3) paper to be presented; (4) copy of letter of acceptance from session organizer (or e-mail correspondence); (5) detailed budget; and (7) one reference letter from the Director of Graduate Studies in the applicant's home department, which attests to the applicant's good standing; this letter should be directly sent to crres@indiana.edu.

The grant submission deadline is March 5, 2017 by 5:00 pm EST. Grant recipients will be notified of the decision regarding their application by April 5, 2017. There is a three-year moratorium on re-applying for the GSTG among award recipients. Send application materials (with the exception of the reference letter) in one PDF file to crres@indiana.edu.
